

Jasen Drutz

Sherwood Park

Jasen has worked as an LPN in primary care for seven years with patients of all ages, and he and his wife just recently celebrated the birth of their first child.

He is currently in a management role in their PCN and has served as a nursing representative on several committees.

A key priority for Jasen, with the LPNs' voice in mind, is prioritizing education concerning the recent change in liability coverage. The second is support for all nursing designations as scope of practice continues to change.

"We should continue to generate opportunities for all nurses to share feedback on their current experiences. For example, AAN came to do a presentation at our PCN. This helped provide awareness to AAN's function and provide an opportunity for nurses at our PCN to share feedback."
